NEW ROLE · FIRST JOB · CAREER CHANGE

You rehearse it in your head. You still have no idea if you're any good.

AI Career Mentor puts you in a real interview — questions read aloud, your spoken answers scored on content, delivery and presence, with a model answer to learn from. So when the real one comes, you've already done it.

The screenshot displays the AI Career Mentor web application interface. At the top, the browser address bar shows 'aicareermentor.co.uk/practice'. The app header includes the logo and a user profile icon with the text 'Exit to practice setup'. The main content area is divided into two columns. The left column shows 'Question 1/5' with a 'Back' button and a question prompt: 'Tell me about yourself and why you're interested in this role.' Below the question is a text input field. The right column, titled 'Your answer' and 'Answer editor', shows a green checkmark indicating 'AI feedback is ready' and a 'View feedback' button. Below this is a sample answer text. At the bottom of the right column are 'Clear answer' and 'Get feedback' buttons. The bottom section of the interface is titled 'AI feedback' and shows an overall score of '8/10'. Below this is a row of six score cards: Overall (8/10), Content (8/10), Clarity (8/10), Relevance (8/10), Structure (8/10), and Confidence (7/10). A 'Next question' button is located to the right of the scores.

I'm a recent graduate with a strong interest in building reliable software that solves real problems. During my degree I focused on practical projects: in my final year I led the data layer of a team product (Situation/Task), where I designed the schema and automated our testing (Action), which cut our integration bugs to almost none and let us ship two weeks early (Result). Alongside that I interned at a small startup, where I learned to work directly with users and ship in small, safe increments. I'm drawn to this role because it combines that hands-on engineering with a clear product focus, and I'm keen to keep growing in a team that values quality and ownership.
